ARTIST DOESN'T MATTER

Dominic Vetromile Happy
Winner at Auction Sale Near South Norwalk.

A bronze bust of Herr William von Hofenloer, formerly referred to as Kaiser Wilhelm II., soon will decorate the main dining room of the Merimar Inn at Westport, Conn. The proprietor of the Merimar, Dominic Vetromile, Italian, not German, won the bust in spirited bidding at the surplus property sale of the United States Shipping Board yesterday at the Wilson Point Yards at South Norwalk, Conn.

Vetromile was so determined to call the sculptured head of the ex-Kaiser his own that he held on and on as the bids went up and up and finally separated himself from $835.

Moreover, Signor Vetromile believes he got a great bargain. He would have been willing to pay more than twice what he actually paid, such is his conviction that a great work of art and rare—getting rarer all the time—has passed into his possession. He tells himself that the Kaiser was not so bad, after all, and that the people who patronize the Merimar will not walk out on his principal art exhibit.

"Wonderful Bargain" at $835.

"Believe me," said Vetromile, almost breathlessly, after he dashed back to his inn from the exciting auction sale, "believe me, I got a wonderful bargain. It is a beautiful piece of work, that bust.
Also it is extremely rare. The Kaiser posed for it himself. Think of it!"

"Thought is registered," Mr. Vetromile was assured, "but why are you, an Italian, so wrought up about a piece of German junk? It was so described in the Shipping Board prospectus, you know."

"My God! German junk! What a phrase! It is positively barbarous used in allusion to this beautiful, this noble head! It is true I am Italian, but in art I am a cosmopolitan. I tell you that a great man modeled that bust."

"What was the name of this great artist?"

"That I do not know," Vetromile replied. "What matters it?"

"It is rare, this work?"

"Oh, very rare. And sure to be rare.
Do you not think that very few busts of the Kaiser will ever be made again—perhaps none whatever?"

"It certainly looks like a good bet, Mr. Vetromile. Perhaps as good as 1 to 3."

First Bid Thirty Cents.

The art lover of Westport said that the auction was brisk and hotly contended. The bidding started at 30 cents and went by rapid jumps up to the price for which he finally landed the prize.
There was assurance from the Shipping Board people last night that the $835 was real money. Many of the bidders were sharp eyed art dealers, and some obviously were Teutonic. But all retired before the impetuous attack of Vetromile.

The odd thing about the sale of this particular object, of a bust which formed some eight years ago one of the principal decorations of the Vaterland—now the President Harding—when she set forth from Hamburg on her maiden voyage, is that it was not expected to bring more than a few dollars by the U. S. S. B. people running the disposal sale. They used the Kaiser's bust and its history for publicity, but they didn't think they were going to get a sackful of dollars for it.

Will your patrons, some of whom conceivably will be French and English, like the idea of dining under the eye of Wilhelm II., who caused them so much distress?"

"I don't believe they will mind it a bit," said Vetromile, confidently. "The Kaiser is growing in favor. Moreover, the art of it will win their admiration."

TWO ALIENISTS REPORT
MRS. RAIZEN IS SANE

Others Aver Dr. Glickstein's Slayer Is Insane.

Alienists reported yesterday to County Judge Martin in Brooklyn that Mrs.
Lillian S. Raizen, who shot and killed Dr. Abraham Glickstein in his Williamsburg office last December, was sane at that time and is sane now. They said that the woman now in the Raymond street jail is of "the deliberate, immoral type." In part, the report said:

"Did she do it to satisfy herself for her own gratification? She did—it was an act of retaliation."

"The murder was premeditated, and deliberately carried out. It was the result of hate and not the result of insanity. For she was not insane at the time of the act, nor is she insane now."

The alienists are Dr. John F. W.
Meagher, who served as a major in the United States Army during the war, and Dr. Frank S. Senior, formerly Coroner of Kings county. They will appear before Judge Martin on Friday and give testimony based on their report. If Judge Martin concludes that Mrs. Raizen is sane she will be placed on trial for murder in the first degree, which carries with it the death penalty.

It is possible, however, that Judge Martin, before rendering a decision, will also call before him alienists representing the defense, who reported Mrs.
Raizen to be insane, and alienists who on behalf of District Attorney Ruston, it is understood, also declared she was insane.

CITY BUREAU FINDS JOBS FOR 461 IN WEEK

200 More Openings for Laborers on Erie Work.

The City Employment Bureau, 129 Worth street, yesterday reported that the past week had been the best in more than a month in finding jobs. There were 461 placements. There was a sharp increase in the demand for general laborers, and 310 of them were placed, many of them being given repair and construction jobs on the Erie Railroad, which has 200 more openings.

Sixty-nine skilled workmen, sixty-two clerical workers and twenty women were placed.

$500,000 IS VOTED TO HUNT 'GRAFTERS'

House Appropriates Sum for Prosecution of War Contract Frauds.

DAUGHTERTY AS A TARGET

Attorney-General Attacked for Failure to Bring One Case to Trial.

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD.

New York Herald Bureau.
Washington, D. C., May 15.]

Without a roll call the House to-day passed a bill appropriating $500,000 for the Department of Justice, to be expended in a hunt for war contract grafters.

While the money grant was not opposed, Representative Woodruff (Mich.) and other members censured Attorney-General Daugherty for his alleged laxity in bringing offenders to trial and said there was no doubt Congressional pressure would be put on him to take action in the situation by Mr. Daugherty.

The House also unanimously passed another bill authorizing the empaneling of a special Grand Jury in the District of Columbia to consider war fraud cases.
In the consideration of this bill members again attacked Mr. Daugherty.

Mr. Woodruff, author of the resolution which called for a Congressional investigation of the Department of Justice, alluding to Col. Guy D. Goff, assistant Attorney-General in charge of war fraud cases, said he spent his time "proclaiming in loud and certainly unadvisable language the wonderful things he had done and wonderful things he is going to do." He referred to Abraham F.
Myers, a law clerk in the Department, and to Rush L. Holland, "another cog in this wonderful machine," as being opposed to bringing war graft prosecutions in the courts.

"The Attorney-General," said Mr.
Woodruff, "after fourteen long months has come to Congress with a request for an appropriation with which to prosecute this work. He should have made this request more than a year ago.
He would have made this request at that time had he been alive to the situation. Every member of the House knows he was urged months ago by Representative Graham (Ill.) to submit such a request and that he failed to act upon that suggestion, notwithstanding the fact that the statute of limitations was operating against every one of those cases in which fraud was involved.

Three and a half years have passed since the armistice was signed and not a prosecution. What a record!

"The Attorney-General's letter to the President, together with his request for this appropriation, is a direct invitation to the House to ignore the request for a committee of investigation. Notwithstanding this, if he is in earnest in these matters and pushes them in the way he should he will be back again for other appropriations for this purpose."

Representative King (Ill.), speaking in favor of the appropriation, declared that if the Department of Justice fairly prosecuted all the cases that would be referred to the House to ignore the request for a committee of investigation. Notwithstanding this, if he is in earnest in
these matters and pushes them in the

"It is evident," said Representative Moore (Va.), "that the Woodruff-Johnson resolution is responsible for the course now pursued by the Attorney-General. He asks for an appropriation of $500,000. It is a belated complaint and request. It will not dispose of the resolution which is designed not to provide for proceedings against war profiteers, but to enable Congress and the country to know whether the charge brought against the Attorney-General are, or are not well founded."

"I'm certainly glad," said Representative Connally (Tex.), "that the House is building a fire under the Attorney-General and I hope he finally lands one profiteer as a sort of Exhibit A.
The proper thing to do in that case, of course, would be to put him in a cage and send him around the country, as an actual demonstration, in the flesh, of what was done with this $500,000."

Representative Goodkowitz inquired as to whether it was not a fact that many of the records of the Department of Justice had been destroyed before the Republicans came into power. Representative Campbell answered in the affirmative and said that some of them had been destroyed since the advent of the present administration. It was one of the many handicaps which the present Administration encountered, he said, in perfecting a reorganization of the Department of Justice.

Representative Madden, chairman of the Committee on Appropriations, defended Mr. Daugherty. He said the Attorney-General's request to have the statute of limitations extended, was evidence enough that the fraud cases would be brought to trial.

MORSE AND MUCH HELD IN $5,000 BAIL

Plead Not Guilty to Being Fugitives From Justice in Mail Fraud.

MOVE TO QUASH CASE

Defendants Named With Morses in Indictments Attack Prosecutor.

PORTLAND, Me., May 15.—Charles W.
Morse of Bath and Rupert M. Much of Augusta each were held in $5,000 bail to-day after pleading not guilty before a Federal commissioner on a complaint that they were fugitives from justice at New York on an indictment charging use of the mails to defraud. Bail was furnished for them to appear for hearing on May 25.

Motions to quash indictments against four of the defendants named with Charles W. Morse and his three sons by the Federal Grand Jury were made yesterday before Judge Augustus Hand in the United States District Court. The defendants are Martin J. Gillen, William A. Barber, Stuart G. Gibbons and George M. Burditt. Argument on the motion will be heard Friday before Judge Hand.

The defendants who appeared in person were indicted as codefendants on a charge of having used the mails in a scheme to defraud through the sale of capital stock of the United States Steamship Company.

In a lengthy brief filed by Bouvier, Caffey & Beale, attorneys for Barber and Gibbons, Fletcher Dobyns, the Government investigator whose activities brought about the indictments, is assailed on the ground he has never been connected with the Department of Justice, was not a witness before the Federal Grand Jury or connected with the prosecution in the capacity of Attorney-General, United States Attorney or an assistant, but was associated with the Emergency Fleet Corporation as counsel, and as such had no right to conduct the Grand Jury proceedings which resulted in the indictments.

Emory R. Buckner and Harold A.
Harper for Gillen told the court they would prove no evidence was submitted to the Grand Jury in any way connecting Gillen with the acts complained of in the indictment. They also complained that Dobyns was not a special assistant to the Attorney-General or an officer of the United States Government in any capacity.

Similar complaint regarding Dobyns was made by Col. Caffey in behalf of Barber and Gibbons.

You can tap all the resources and world-wide services of a great National Bank

At nine centers of the city's trade, the services of the Irving National Bank have now been made available.

Each one of the Offices is a complete banking unit, responsible for its own activities. Yet backing up every one are the world-wide resources, highly developed service departments and international connections of one of the great commercial banks of the United States.

In addition to all standard banking facilities—business and personal —the Irving has developed many specialized services for its depositors.

Special services designed to eliminate delays in turnover of capital

The Irving has built up a special Bill-of-Lading Department. This Department is organized to trace railroad shipments, to locate freight cars on arrival at terminals, to eliminate every sort of delay in releasing capital.

Every morning 40 messengers leave the Main Office of the Irving in the Woolworth Building—covering in person every important center in Greater New York.

By direct private wires to important cities and through well established connections with banks in all parts of the country, the Irving secures for its depositors maximum speed in handling all banking transactions.

Through correspondents in more than 5000 foreign cities, and through its special representatives in leading foreign markets, the Irving has built up a specialized service in collections and transfer of funds, and in obtaining credit information abroad. Direct cable connections are maintained with every trade center of the world.

The above are a few of the ways in which Irving service is designed to speed up the turnover of its depositors' capital.

A visit to the nearest Office (see complete list at left) and a talk with the Officers in charge will suggest how these facilities can serve you in your business and personal affairs.

Smaller offices, too, can save money, space and trouble

SAID the head of a small business, "I know Library Bureau can save money for large offices. But all we buy is an occasional supply of folders and cards and once in a great while a filing cabinet. How could you save for me?"

"Right here," said the L. B. salesman, and produced an L. B. Reinforced folder. "This folder not only costs less than the average heavyweight folder, but it saves one-third file space in the cabinets. Result: fewer cabinets; less floor space.

"Down at the fold this folder is medium weight. But the busy handling edge is reinforced with a double thickness strip—an exclusive Library Bureau idea that is saving money for thousands of offices and will save money for you."

No office is too small, none too great for Library Bureau to demonstrate that it can save money in filing and record-keeping. Let an L. B. representative show you.
